

SOCIAL MEDIA HARM TOWN HALL

At Levin Papantonio, supporting our community goes beyond the courtroom. We are committed to strengthening the communities we serve through advocacy, education, and meaningful partnerships that promote the health, safety, and well-being of children and families.

Local Resources

CDAC Behavioral Healthcare plays an important role in supporting individuals and families affected by substance use and addiction. Through prevention programs, counseling services, education, and recovery support, CDAC helps people build healthier futures while providing families with the tools, guidance, and resources they need to navigate difficult challenges. Their work strengthens our community by promoting awareness, early intervention, and long-term recovery for those impacted by addiction.

To learn more about CDAC's programs and services, visit cdac.info/contact or call (888) 994-9944.

PACE Center for Girls Escambia-Santa Rosa empowers girls through education, counseling, advocacy, and life-skills development. By partnering with local organizations, including Pensacola State College, PACE connects girls with the resources and support they need to build confidence and resilience. In a time when 34% of teen girls report that social media makes them feel worse about their lives, PACE helps young women develop healthy self-esteem, strong support systems, and the skills to navigate challenges both online and offline.

Learn more at pacecenter.org/locations/florida/escambia-santa-rosa/.

Jayla's Voice was founded in honor of Jayla Michelle, whose vibrant spirit, creativity, and deep love for her family left a lasting impact on everyone who knew her. Through education, advocacy, and prevention efforts, the organization works to raise awareness about the dangers of fentanyl and substance misuse while empowering families and communities with the knowledge and resources needed to protect and support young people. By fostering open conversations and awareness, Jayla's Voice helps families recognize risks, make informed decisions, and create safer futures for youth.

Learn more about Jayla's Voice at jaylasvoice.org.

As Escambia County's Child Advocacy Center, Gulf Coast Kid's House provides critical support and advocacy for children and families impacted by abuse. Through prevention education and community outreach, they work to keep children safe and help families heal. One valuable resource they offer is KnowChildAbuse.org, a free training program that helps adults recognize the signs of child abuse and trafficking, understand how to report concerns, and become part of the solution to keeping children safe.

Learn more at www.gulfcoastkidshouse.org. Report child abuse by calling the hotline: 1-800-96-ABUSE.

Lakeview Center provides mental health, substance use, crisis intervention, and family support services for individuals of all ages across Northwest Florida. Through counseling, treatment programs, and community-based care, they help children, families, and individuals navigate life's challenges while building healthier, more resilient futures. As conversations around social media harms continue, access to trusted mental health resources remains an important part of supporting youth and families in our community.

Learn more about available services and resources at eLakeviewCenter.org.

United Way of West Florida is helping students and families thrive through Healthy Schools Escambia, a program that connects local schools with health, wellness, academic, and family support services. By bringing community resources directly into schools, HSE helps ensure children have the support they need to succeed both in and out of the classroom. UWWF also powers 211 Northwest Florida and answers local 988 crisis calls, connecting individuals and families to vital resources, mental health support, and crisis services when they need them most.

Need help? Dial 211 for local resources or call/text 988 for free, confidential crisis support 24/7.

West Florida Public Libraries serves as a trusted community resource, providing free access to educational tools, technology, digital resources, and programs for all ages. From early literacy initiatives and summer reading programs to teen activities and online learning opportunities, the library helps young people build critical thinking, digital literacy, and research skills that are essential in today's connected world. By creating safe spaces for learning and exploration, West Florida Public Libraries empowers families throughout our community.

Explore programs, resources, and events at MyWFPL.com.

